remained for Bill Hausen to brate his initial appearance in Salt Lake in three years to do the stick work which wen the game for Ogden in the ninth inning. Bill was the first man up the ninth and must have dreamed of the good old days when he was wont to hamper out a victory for the Lobsters in this inning. Anyway Bill looked just as ne used to, spat on his hands as of old, set himself, and then lammed a ball up not where he has lammed them many imes before. Hausen was on third when ball came in. Ramshaw followed with a two-bagger, and Hausen scored the sinning run in the banner game of the season, as far as Salt Lake is concerned. Two outs at first let Ramshaw in for

Game a Pitchers' Battle.

Tre game was a pitchers' battle, and a great one at that. Chevalier, the new Salt Lake man, won a home with the fans and although he did not win the game he pitched some ball. Three hits in the first eight innings and two in the last tells the line of twists and curves this youngster has at his command. He this youngster has at his command. He fields his position like a veteran and pitches his best ball when in a hole.
